Dear Peace lovers, the purpose of the 8th International Emotional Literacy Congress is to produce more anger-free world societies in order to make the world a better place to live in, and to make life better for all people. Through the sharing of advanced research findings and proven effective strategies for creating peace at all levels of human society and interactions, this conference offers participants the opportunity to explore ways of creating environments—families, schools, and communities—built on the foundations of a culture of wellness psychology, a culture of positive management, and a culture of peace, harmony, and individual excellence.

May I congratulate all of you in advance for participating in this International Conference and hope that you will expand the feeling first presented to us in Nepal by Buddha, in this the land of his birth.

About the 8th WWA International Conference

The world in first quarter of the 21st century has increasingly realised the importance and prominence of global peace and human resources to ensure the sustainability of the Earth and human living. While innovation is the growth engine for organisations, "it is the human capital that spurs innovation more than any other organisational resources. Research into behaviour science, psychology and emotional intelligence has assumed increased value in modern organisations and society."

However, geo-political changes and socio-economic complexities in the recent decades have given rise to erosion in human values, rise in human stress level, and social disturbances in the quality of life of Earth's people. At the dawn of the new millennium, what is required most is to promote global peace through emotional literacy, wellness psychology, management of workplace behaviour, and effective people management. Peace education, emotional intelligence and effective management of human resources and other organisation systems play an important role in building peace and harmony and for achieving balanced development and sustainability in order to develop a globally sustainable, peaceful society.

Goals of the Conference

- Present and explore innovative approaches and practices in emotional intelligence (EI/EQ) and behavioural science research and applications;
- Provide a platform for academicians, researchers, clinicians, policymakers, practitioners, and students for intellectual discourse and for presentation of their ideas, research results and innovative practices in the areas of EQ, psychology, organisation and human resource management and global peace initiatives;

- Be a platform for fostering exchange of global peace, EQ, organisation and people management thoughts between practising academicians and managers; and
- Explore peace education and curriculum developments for teaching and learning emotional skills, and to model programme applications in business, organisations, academic institutions, and government organisations for a sustainable future

The conference is an ideal forum for learning and networking as international scholars, researchers, educators, learners and consultants as well as experts from different professional backgrounds will present their papers and posters on global peace initiatives, Emotional Intelligence (EI/EQ) research and applications in the areas of education, organisation behaviour and management, and organisation communication, society, and psychiatric applications.
